

D VISUAL SKILLS

D4: A Cupful

Needed: a cup with a handle for each student + enough small treats to eat for every student to get 5 or more (raisins, nuts, sunflower seeds, pretzels, grapes).

Activity: The leader places his or her cup with the handle pointing a certain way (right, left, straight ahead, behind . . .). Everyone else places their cup with the handle in the same position. Everyone who has their cup placed correctly gets a treat in their cup. Keep playing as long as this is fun for the class & holds their interest. End by letting everyone eat the treats they have collected in their cups.

If there are not enough cups with handles, try one of these options: put a plastic straw or spoon in each cup. The leader positions the straw or spoon in different places and the students copy.

Variation 1: Everyone has a plastic spoon, a small stick, a spool of thread, a stone or other item which they place next to the cup. First the spoon might be lying to the left of the cup. Next the spoon might be right in front of the cup, and so on. Again, everyone who places the item correctly gets a treat in their cup.

Variation 2: The leader says which way to place the cup handle (or the item in the cup/next to the cup). Everyone who places the item correctly gets a treat in their cup.
